

The Sociology Department invites applications for an anticipated Lecturer position, beginning August 2016. PhD in sociology required at time of appointment. The Lecturer position, while non-tenure-track, is a full-time teaching position with benefits, rights, and privileges of regular faculty and the opportunity for promotion to Senior Lecturer and Principal Senior Lecturer.

The Department is seeking a scholar able to teach Introductory Sociology, Social Problems, Families and Society, and Gender and Society as well as some combination of Social Statistics and/or Sexuality and Society at the undergraduate level.

Located in the heart of downtown Atlanta, Georgia State University is the largest university in the state of Georgia and has one of the most diverse student bodies in the country. We enthusiastically encourage applications from minority candidates. You can learn more about our department at www.gsu.edu/sociology.

Candidates should submit 1) letter outlining qualifications for position; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) evidence of teaching effectiveness (i.e., course syllabi, student evaluations, and teaching statement; and 4) three letters of recommendation.

Excellence in undergraduate teaching is essential. Please email materials to:

sociologysearch@gsu.edu. If emailing materials is not possible, please send hard copy materials to Recruitment Committee, Georgia State University, Department of Sociology, P.O. Box 5020, Atlanta, GA 30302. The Committee will begin reviewing applications June 13, 2016. Position will remain open until filled. An offer of employment will be conditional on background verification. Georgia

State University, a unit of the University System of Georgia, is an Equal Opportunity Educational Institution and an EEO/AA employer.
