

The sociology department at Pacific University in Forest Grove, OR invites applications for a full-time, one-year (with possibility of renewal) Visiting Assistant Professor in the undergraduate sociology program beginning in the Fall 2017. The teaching load is 24 credits per year, which is typically six four-credit courses. Individuals will be expected to teach at least two sections of Social Statistics (SOC 301) and one section of Survey Research (SOC 302). The other courses will be in the general sociology curriculum and/or the candidate's areas of expertise. All areas of expertise will be considered, but preference will be given to candidates with expertise in social stratification, urban sociology, and/or environmental sociology.

Pacific University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that values a diverse workplace. We encourage women and members of underrepresented groups to apply. Candidates whose work is informed by culturally inclusive and social justice approaches are strongly encouraged to apply.

Pacific University is located in historic Forest Grove, Oregon, twenty-five miles west of Downtown Portland. The College of Arts and Sciences is a residential liberal arts campus that emphasizes small class sizes and student-centered learning.
