

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO
DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY

The Department of Sociology at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for an Assistant Professor in the areas of demography/health and quantitative methodology beginning Fall 2018. All applicants must provide evidence of a record of scholarly research and professional publications.

All applicants must have a Ph.D. (ABDs will be considered) in Sociology with a concentration in demography/health and strong quantitative skills. Successful applicants will have the ability to teach courses in demography, health, and quantitative methods. Areas of strength in the department include health, Latino/a studies, and families. Successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda, have an emerging record of publications and potential for future extramural funding, and demonstrate commitments to instructional excellence and departmental service. Ideal candidates are expected to have participated in collaborative research, and have had prior classroom experience as an instructor of record.

Responsibilities: The successful candidate is required to pursue an active research and publishing agenda, and to teach and mentor undergraduate and graduate students. Teaching assignments will be made at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The standard teaching load is 2-2.

Applicants should submit the following electronically to UTSA Human Resources at <https://jobs.utsa.edu>:

1. Letter of application that states research interest, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position
2. Current curriculum vita
3. Copy of graduate transcripts
4. One sample of written or published scholarly work
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction)
7. Three names and email addresses of references

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

UTSA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.
