

Lecturer of Sociology to begin August 15, 2018.

The Department of Sociology at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte is seeking applications for a Lecturer of Sociology to begin August 15, 2018. Requirements for this position include 1) an M.A.in Sociology or related field (Ph.D. is preferred); 2) evidence of effective teaching; 3) a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment; and 4) a willingness to teach Introduction to Sociology and Critical Thinking courses as part of the general education requirement. More information on Critical Thinking courses is available here. The Lecturer will have a 4:4 course load.

The Department of Sociology offers the B.A. and M.A. in Sociology, and department faculty support interdisciplinary Ph.D. programs in Public Policy, Health Psychology, Health Services Research, Public Health, and Organizational Science. We also support the general education curriculum and interdisciplinary programs in Gerontology, Women and Gender Studies, International Studies, Latin American Studies, and American Studies. The core strengths in the Department of Sociology are sociology of organizations, health, public policy, education, and social psychology. For additional information about our department, visit our website at <http://www.sociology.uncc.edu/>.

UNC Charlotte is a rapidly growing doctoral-granting urban university located in the largest metropolitan area between Washington DC, and Atlanta. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus. More than 29,000 culturally diverse students are enrolled at the University. As the largest college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 20 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and natural sciences, as well as 25 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. It offers 8 doctoral degrees, 36 master's degrees and graduate certificates, and 32 undergraduate degrees.

Please apply on-line at <http://jobs.uncc.edu> (position # 007558) and include your curriculum vita, a statement about teaching, and a list of three references. Please discuss your experience and willingness to teach Introduction to Sociology and Critical Thinking courses in your cover letter. Applications received by March 25, 2018 are assured full consideration although recruitment will continue until the position is filled. As an EOE/AA employer and an ADVANCE Institution that strives to create an academic climate in which the dignity of all individuals is respected and maintained, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte encourages applications from all underrepresented groups. Finalists will be asked during their interview to discuss how they address diversity and inclusion while teaching. Applicants subject to criminal background check.